Appearance: Bright, deep ruby red. Nose: Cherry and pomegranate skin, layered with orange peel, liquorice, dried herbs and mineral notes. Palate: Fresh, deep and rounded, with vibrant acidity and fine, polished tannins. Finish: Long, powerful and elegant, with lingering red fruit, herbs and minerality.

About the wine

Two old Garnacha vineyards above 1,000 metres in the Sierra de Gredos are blended: Cebreros vines from 1922 on slate and San Bartolomé de Pinares vines from 1935 on granite. Fermentation starts spontaneously in stainless steel and the wine matures in large oak foudres. Gredos Garnacha is prized for freshness thanks to altitude.
