Tasting notes

Cavalchina was the first winery to put “Custoza” on a label, in 1962, nine years before the DOC existed. A blend of Garganega with the local Fernanda and Trebbianello: straw yellow with green tones, lightly aromatic, generous and balanced on the palate.

About the wine

Cavalchina's vineyards lie on the gravelly morainic hills south of Lake Garda. Each grape variety is picked by hand at its own ripeness and fermented separately at controlled temperature in stainless steel before blending. In 1962 Cavalchina was the first winery to put the name 'Custoza' on a white wine, helping create the appellation.

Winemaking

MATURATION	On the lees in stainless steel until February after the harvest, when the separately vinified varieties are blended; malolactic blocked
